Do Your Research

When it comes to choosing a roofing contractor, you'll want to do some research to make sure that you're selecting one that can complete the job. Start by searching for roofing companies in the Knoxville area and checking out their reviews online. This will give you an idea of what others think about their services and whether or not they would recommend them. Additionally, you can ask friends and family in the area for referrals if they have had work done recently.

Check for Licensure and Insurance

It's essential that the roofer you choose is properly licensed and insured in your state. This provides you with peace of mind if something goes wrong either during or after the project. Also, make sure the contractor has active workers' compensation and liability insurance. This will help make sure that any accidents or injuries that occur on the job are taken care of properly.

Ask for an Estimate

Once you've identified a few potential roofers, make sure to get an estimate of the costs for the project. This should include an itemized list of materials and labor, and should not include any additional costs not listed. When comparing estimates, make sure that you factor in the cost of materials and the total labor costs to ensure you're getting the best deal available for the project.

Read Reviews

Finally, make sure to read reviews from past customers of the potential roofing contractors you're considering. This will give you an idea of the company's work quality, customer service, and whether or not they honored the initial estimate. Reviews can also give you a good indication of how long the company has been in business so you can be sure you're working with a reputable contractor.
