

Seedlings: The Journal of the Undergraduate Psychology Association

Undergraduate Authorship Agreement

In cases where submissions to the Journal involve the contributions of multiple authors, the following conditions concerning the education status of authors must be met. This agreement should be signed by all contributors to any article of multiple authors and attached during its submission to the Journal. Where an article includes the work of multiple persons,

- (a) the primary contributor (i.e., the first author listed in the submission; the person who contributed the most) must have completed their work (or the bulk of their work) for the article during their time as an undergraduate student, which must not have ended longer than three years prior to submission;
- (b) all persons involved in the production of the article must be listed in the submission and in this agreement in order of their respective contributions to its completion.

By signing this agreement, you confirm that

- (1) you are a contributor to the submission in question;
- (2) Either that you were an undergraduate during the completion of (or the bulk of the completion of) your contribution to the submission; or, that you were not an undergraduate during the completion of (or the bulk of the completion of) your contribution to the submission, but that (in this case) you did not contribute more than the primary contributor (as set out in condition (a) above);
- (3) that you can provide evidence of your education status during the time of this submission's completion should it be requested by the Editorial Committee of the Journal, and;
- (4) that conditions (a), (b), and (c) above have been satisfactorily met.
