

This is a space for you to reflect upon the course and your interaction with the course. This reflection will also give me the necessary feedback to make improvements to the class for future students. Think of this reflection as a way to strengthen your sense of self while also effecting the change necessary for future students to succeed.

1. How do you think you did this semester? How have you contributed to your own learning?
2. Name one specific activity or assignment that contributed to your growth as a writer and explain why.
3. Name one specific activity or assignment that contributed to your growth as a reader and explain why.
4. What was your favorite text?
5. What was your least favorite text?
6. Was there anything that you felt you needed that you didn't get from this class?
7. Did your view of English change as a result of this course? Why or why not?
8. What was one thing you were surprised to learn this semester (about the content, yourself, or others)?
9. If someone asked you, "what did you learn in English 1B," how would you respond?
10. What suggestions do you have for when I teach this class in the Fall (likely online). What do you think I should keep doing? What should I avoid or do more of? What should I change?
