Call 1:

Hi Meghan Melisa, I love the podcast and I'm super excited to finally have a reason to call in. So I'm 23. My boyfriend is twenty-five and we've been together for just over a year and we've been long distance for eight months of that. He's actually moving across the country to be near me in a couple of weeks. So some back story. I had one boyfriend before my current boyfriend and we never slept together then right after I broke up with him. I went through a brief phase and I slept with like three random hookups and then I met my current boyfriend and he's my fourth partner. My boyfriend has only had one partner before me, it was his ex. They only had sex a few times and I know that it never lasted very long. He never finished and it was not very pleasurable and then we met pretty much as soon as they broke up. So reoccurring issue that has come up in our relationship is my boyfriend's jealousy of my past sexual experiences, and I know this like isn't super uncommon he doesn't try to make me feel guilty about it. It's just that he jealous I used to sleep with and he can't really understand like casual sex and how it can be just that surface-level and not anything deeper. So it's not even like he wishes that he had slept with other people, I think part of the fact is that when he was in college most of his friends were saving themselves for marriage so sex was like put on this huge huge pedestal and she was an RA so she never really went to parties and he wasn't around hookup culture. So it wasn't normalized for him and he's having a hard time understanding it and dealing with the fact that I had participated in the past. The sex in our relationship is really awesome. It's not getting boring or stale I mean obviously for long distance right now so you can't do it all the time, but I really don't think that's the issue. So that's the backstory and I'm calling about specifically is the other night. We were talking about this and how it's just kind of this issue that's not going away. And we had this idea kind of both of us. It wasn't him pushing this on me, where he would hook up with someone just like random off of Tinder so he can just empathize with hooking up and understand kind of where I was coming from. I'm just calling to ask if this is totally ridiculous. Obviously there would be rules. I don't think it would really bother me. I honestly think it would be kind of hot and obviously this would not happen until after COVID. So yeah, I just don't know if this is totally crazy. I mean is this just super unhealthy and like not the right way to go about dealing with this or is it kind of okay. Please be harsh if this is totally ridiculous. Let me know. Thank you.

Hello, Meghan and Melisa I go by she/her pronouns, to get into this. So basically I've been with my boyfriend now for going on a year. He has two older brothers and his oldest brother's wife hates me. Essentially there's absolutely no reason for her to hate me besides the fact that she is best friends with his ex-girlfriend. So starting out the first weekend I ever met her we all went out on the boat. We were fishing and she was on her phone. She wasn't fishing. Which I thought was odd but I didn't think anything of it. I thought maybe she was just shy. Fast forward to us going back to our place at night. We walk in and every picture of my boyfriend and I are thrown on the ground. We thought that was odd because they were all nailed or screwed to the wall. So it would take someone physically doing it to get them onto the ground. We didn't think anything of it put them back up and went to the convenience store by our house and noticed that his ex-girlfriend was in town from about three hours away. To give a little bit of information, his brother is also from about eight hours away. So it's not a coincidence that they were both in town on same day randomly cuz his brother comes back maybe twice a year. So I thought that was odd and then come to find out they had invited her back to the family reunion that that was that was that weekend and we just happened to catch her and it spooked her off thankfully but now I moved in with him from back where I was we were doing long distance for a while. She found out and continued to message me for false things about my boyfriend, saying that he was sleeping with her, that she was still living there, various claims that were very easily proven false. And usually I would be the person to believe the woman in the situation but there's just there's cameras like there's so many things that he was able to show me that proved that completely wrong. But also now I am pregnant and she continues to kind of try and divide my boyfriend and I whether it be from him and his family, me and his family, whatever it maybe she creates his false claims that just aren't true. And I'm not really sure what to do.

Don't Blame Them:

Hi, I'm calling in for a Don't Blame Them for a season 7 episode 24 Captain Hook. All right, so I got some big pointers if you need to tolerate this too big, too wide like dick okay. So what they're going to want to do is they are going to want to make sure you are getting all relaxed. So I would highly recommend if they are comfortable with it. Maybe getting a little bit high beforehand. That's the only time I've enjoyed larger items in that manner. Okay. So make sure that you're really relaxed very comfortable. Lots of lube. Like they said I'm also if it's curved make sure that when you're taking it you're lying on your back because then it's going to go up towards the prostate and it won't go back towards the pelvis. Cuz that's who's going to hurt a lot. So if you're doggy style, nah-uh, you want to be on your back, and it'll hurt less also would recommend. There are tubes that you could try and get if you don't want the penis to go all the way in then like you don't want to go as deep. There's tubes that you can put on your partner. So then they don't have to push it in as far and they could still feel the same for them. So basically if you feel comfortable and you are down for that, I would recommend getting a little bit high is nice, lots of lube on your back and then potentially getting the tubes that make it not go in as far. All right. Hopefully that can be a little bit helpful. Yeah. Thanks. Bye.
