

- What is painful about your personal Current State?

First and foremost, I am not depressed or anything of the sort. I do not have much emotional pain because I am pretty far along in my mental disciplinary state. I am in shape and work out every day. I do not masturbate or watch any porn. In my current state, however, I am what you guys call around here, a "brokie". I am 16 and do not have any money but I am working on making my first 100 bucks Mowing Lawns. One thing I do believe I could improve on is my social media use. I use a lot of social media for things other than making money. I want to focus more on making money with my social media use. As I said before, I am very mentally disciplined. However, I have to admit, school is sometimes painful. I have to go through most of my days wasting time sitting in a chair learning a boatload of useless information when I could be working out and learning how to actually make money. I also watch kids every morning sit down for the pledge of allegiance and I just hate being around all of these mindless losers that hate their own country. Let me tell you a story, there is this one kid; we call him Ollie the opp. There was one time in English class when me and my friends were working on an English project and we had Andrew Tate as one of the influential figures with a quote and a picture of him. For some reason everything about Andrew kept getting deleted, we added it back, and it would get deleted over again. It took us a second to realize that it was the opp, Oliver. Keep in mind I have never heard this kid speak before because he is a real-life NPC. The teacher caught wind of the situation and, obviously, sided with Ollie because we live in a weak society now; she told us to keep anything involving Andrew Tate out of the class. At the end of the class, I told some other homies that the teacher banned Andrew Tate from the class and Ollie was right behind us. One of my friends asked why, and Ollie said for the first time I have ever heard him speak. "Because he's a rapist". This just shows how brainwashed today's society is. Even though I found it hilarious, it's also kind of sad; the kid hated Andrew Tate more than any other girl in the class.

- What is desirable about your personal Dream State?

Let me explain my dream state: I want to gain as much money as possible so I can gain freedom and travel the world. I want to be able to do anything I want and the only way I can do this is by learning the real way to make money. If I do become successful and make fuck tons of money, there are unlimited desirable things that come with it. One thing is that I will not have to work a 9-5, I can do whatever I want rather than spend my life in an office somewhere rotting away. Another desire for this lifestyle is that I can travel the world. I could go wherever I want when I want, while still making money while I'm doing it. An added bonus is the hoes. I could get all the hoes if I was rich, obviously, this makes being rich more desirable. In addition, the things you can buy are also appealing; I could live in a mansion with multiple supercars in my garage. Not to mention, I could have a personal chef make me anything I want every day. As I am only 16, if I work hard and focus on my studies, I will hopefully be able to establish a sufficient source of income to the point that I don't have to worry about going to college. You can also retire early living this lifestyle.