

Nick Kleese

Nick Kleese is lecturer in the Department of Writing at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities. He serves as Director of Outreach for the Center for Climate Literacy at the University of Minnesota, as well as Managing Editor of Climate Literacy in Education. He has previously worked as a high school English teacher and nature immersion educator, and he is the co-founder of KidLitLab!—a workshop for first-time children's literature creators. Born on a family farm in Iowa, rural people and places live in the heart of his work.
