Update on Manuel's Progress

Manuel is in good health, but he's been having some issues in the last few months. He has had some sort of skin irritation, and although his family has been putting medicine on it, it hasn't gone away. Also, with the changes in his living situation, he's been expressing a desire to go and live with his biological mother. The house where they've been staying is small, so Manuel's father was renting a room for them. However, the rent went up, so they returned to live in his house again. Manuel's attitude changed, and he decided he wanted to live with his mother. She doesn't want to take him, because she says that she can't care for him properly. His father did take him to visit her in September, but she remains adamant. Would you keep Manuel in your prayers for peace and comfort? Thank you so much, and God bless you!
