

1. I am created to be me
I am fearfully and wonderfully made.
God intentionally designed every part of me.
I am not a copy—I am a masterpiece.
My story, my shape, my soul—are all handcrafted by God.

2. God is not done with me
God finishes what He starts in me.
Even when I can't see it, He is working.
Every day is a new beginning with God and it's an opportunity for the story He is writing with me to shine forth..
I am being renewed, refined, and prepared.

3. I don't need to be someone else.
I am content with who God has made me. I am not more, I am not less either
I am graced for my lane, not someone else's.
I don't need to copy what God created uniquely.
My gifts matter just as they are.
I shine as the light God has made me to be.
I am planted and I bloom in my field.

4. I'm not the only one with a beautiful life
God is raising up many—not just me.
I am part of a radiant people, each carrying His glory.
Others being blessed does not threaten mine.
There is beauty in our togetherness.
They will shine, I will as well.
They will leave beautiful lives, I will as well.

5. God is good to everyone
He is good to all because He is a good Father.
God is good to them just as he is good to me.
His mercy reaches everyone, every day including them.
His love isn't limited—it overflows.
I will celebrate His goodness in other people's lives.

6. I don't have to be jealous
Someone else's win is not my loss.
I can rejoice with others without shrinking.
Envy is not my portion—peace and contentment is.
I let other people's growth inspire me, not intimidate me.

7. I am set apart for something sacred.
I don't have to conform—I'm called to be transformed.

God's presence makes me different, and that's beautiful.
I am not for everyone—I am for God.
