INTRODUCTION

Introduction Section contains an explanation why the issues need to be researched (research significance) and all supporting data or scientific evidence based on personal observations or the results of other researcher studies. The formulation of this research problem is always based on real conditions and objectively scientifically. Community engagement mean the services to society, applying science and technology based on their field, increasing the capacity of society, and community empowerment.

There is no theoretical background section in this manuscript. But, you must input your theoretical background on Introduction section. Theoretical background contains previous theories as the basis of research and the temporary hypothesis. The theory can be in the form of scientific articles, articles in journals, textbooks, or other sources of scientific writing. This theory will be used to provide state of the art of your manuscript from research problems that have been proposed. In the context of community engagement, the theory that should be used primarily is the theory related to community engagement, community development, or community services. Other theories that are still needed to solve the problem of research to support theories that are delivered after the theory of community engagement is discussed.

After the theories are mentioned and discussed, you need to form a problem that show why this manuscript is important, existing gaps, previous research and you as an Author must write the purpose of the manuscript.

Example of the existing gaps and previous research statement is in the end of Introduction section (after theories are mentioned and discussed): "..... (short summary of background)..... A previous researchers is explained on This research is limited on Indeed, this research intends to The purpose of this research that related about community engagement are"

METHODS

Methods are the means used by the author to answer the existing research problem. The method must clear with the location and time of the research, the population and sample of the research, the research variables and the research data. The method of your manuscript also mention detail of your community engagement program.

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

Result and discussion contains results obtained by the author during the research. The results of the research submitted in advance as a whole, which continues by doing the process of discussion. The discussion is presented systematically from general, then leads to the specific. Presentation of the research can be done with the help of tables, drawings/graphs, maps/plans, and schemes.

Result and discussion of your manuscript also interconnected with your theory that used, included novelty of your manuscript about community engagement. Also, your manuscript is based on the result of your community engagement program and what is the implication of this community engagement program to community. Minimum of your explanation on this chapter is range 40% to 50% of your manuscript.

1. Structure

Files must be in MS Word only and should be formatted for direct printing. Figures and tables should be embedded and not supplied separately.

Please make sure that you use as much as possible normal fonts in your documents. To avoid unnecessary error you are strongly advised to use the 'spellchecker' function of MS Word. Follow this order when typing manuscripts: Title, Authors, Affiliations, Abstract, Keywords, Main text (including figures and tables), Acknowledgements, and References. Bulleted lists must not include for manuscript submission.

2. Tables

All tables for submitting manuscript should be numbered with Arabic numerals and this tables can be edit and not as images. Every table should have a caption. Headings should be placed above tables, centered. Only horizontal lines should be used within a table, to distinguish the column headings from the body of the table, and immediately above and below the table. Tables must be embedded into the text and not supplied separately. If the table get on other sources, write the name of source below the table, left justified. Below is an example which the authors may find useful.

Your table on manuscript as much as possible in one page, not continued into next page. It is for the sake of ease for Reader that read your manuscript. Also, for mentioning your table, please mention your table with the number of your table. For example, "... the result of our research is mention on Table 4 ...". And please not mention your table with this example, "... the result of our research is mention on Table below ...".

3. Format of references

References must be listed at the end of the paper. Do not begin them on a new page unless this is necessary. Authors should ensure that every reference in the text appears in the list of references and vice versa. Indicate references is fill by Last Name, Page, and Years, it is called Body Note or End Note. Here is example for you about Body Note or End Note.

"..... Women today have started to have the capacity to contribute from various aspects. For example, is in the office, college, business, and other things. However, not all women can always play an important role in the utilization of natural resources, particularly in the use of the watershed. (Stevenson, 2012: xx)....."

Some examples of how your references should be listed are given at the end of this template in the 'References' section, which will allow you to assemble your reference list according to the correct format and font size.

4. Section headings

List on this tab those individuals or company that provided help during your research. The example of providing your research, e.g., providing language help, writing assistance, data collect, proof reading the article, etc.

REFERENCES

Writing and compiling references using reference applications (reference manager) such as Mendeley, Zotero, Reffwork, Endnote. Bibliography that is written only really is referred to in the article and arranged alphabetically. Bibliography is arranged alphabetically based on the alphabetical order of the author's name. Author name convention: the name displayed is the last name (surname) of the author followed by the initial (and middle) abbreviation if any. If the author is more than one person, then the writing method is the same. Each name, year, article title and so on ends with a period (.) Before continuing with the next word. Especially for writing the volume (number) of the journal, it is marked with a colon (:) without space. Writing examples can be seen in the explanation of each type of literature worthy of reference. The following are examples of bibliography using the Mendeley application in the American Psychological Association (APA) 6th Edition format:
