Adler Planetarium

Thank you for looking at the stock photos we collected for this lecture series. These photos are from the development process, rehearsals, and the lectures themselves and include images from our partners around the world. Following are some guidelines we'd like you to consider when using them:

- Please use them only for the purpose of pitching or reporting the Kavli Fulldome Lecture Series. If you want to use them for another purpose contact the Project Manager, in this case Steve Burkland (sburkland@adlerplanetarium.org).
- These images should not be used to create promotional materials meant to replace those we provide in the Partner Marketing Packet, or on the Media Resources page of the Kavli Google Site.
- You may modify the visual characteristics (brightness, contrast, image size, etc) of these pictures to make them more appropriate for the media in which they'll be used, but please do not add or subtract content from them.
- When known, please include a citation for the institution responsible for the images. They're separated in folders corresponding to institution, otherwise they were taken by the Adler Planetarium.
- In short, use them respectfully and for the manner in which they were intended.
