

Hey everyone! This is shortcakeemoji speaking!

Before yall begin panicking, no, this is not a call out document. This is actually an announcement that I have been prepping for a very long time now!

As some of you know, I am the creator of Bow Chan, the former mascot of Love Letter: My True Feelings. Ever since that whole fiasco happened almost four years ago, I still get some questions relating to what will happen to Bow Chan.

For those who have been keeping an eye on my artwork, you might have noticed I posted multiple illustrations relating to Bow Chan! Those were merely a taste of what I have to announce!

I'm excited to announce that I am working on an official webcomic!

Taking place in modern day Japan at the fictional Miura University, Haru Aono has been receiving many love letters from a secret admirer and he wants to figure out who it may be! Although...he may begin to regret trying to uncover who this person could be, especially when others lives are on the line...

While I am excited to be announcing this, this doesn't come with entirely good news. With the sudden corruption and loss of 90% of my files on my D drive (Thanks Windows!) I lost a lot of valuable data, but luckily some files relating to the webcomic managed to survive!

With that being said, I will quickly answer some possibly asked questions regarding the comic down below, but feel free to ask any other questions, and I will try and answer them as directly and clearly as possible!

How often will the comic be updated?	While I do not have a concrete set schedule at this time, I plan to update the web comic every 3 weeks!
Will Yours Truly be available in other languages?	Currently, the webcomic will only be available in English!
What is the genre of the webcomic?	Romantic Thriller!
Where will the webcomic be posted?	After weighing my options, the webcomic will be posted on both Tapas and Tumblr! With Tapas for the casual reader and Tumblr with more details such as character bios and the such!

This will most likely be updated in due time, but for now, that's all I got!
See yall soon! <3