

LaToya S. Lynn, Prevention & Education Specialist, Headquarters Marine Corps

Rooted in a deep commitment to service, LaToya has spent over a decade supporting military families through behavioral health, advocacy, and prevention work. She began her career as a Child Protective Investigator in Florida, later serving Navy families in San Diego as an EFMP Case Liaison and Victim Advocate. Since 2021, she has worked with the Marine Corps, first at Quantico and now at Headquarters Marine Corps, where she leads strategic prevention and education initiatives.

She holds a bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of South Carolina and a master's in human services counseling from Liberty University. Her work is grounded in trauma-informed care, community resilience, and a passion for empowering families through education and support.

Currently based in Fredericksburg, Virginia, she's also a proud mom to two daughters, Zoé and Teagan—her greatest motivation and daily reminder of why this work matters.
