Introduction

State the background and objectives of the research, supported by an adequate research basis. Avoid repeating material from references in excessive detail.

Keep a copy of your paper. Upon acceptance of the paper, the corresponding author is assumed to grant us the copyright to publish the paper in the relevant book or journal. If authors use tables or figures from other publications, they must obtain permission from the corresponding author of that publication to reproduce the material in their paper.

Use italics to emphasize words, phrases, and foreign terms. Do not use boldface or capital letters except in headings.

References are cited in the text using square brackets [1]. Two or more references are placed within a single set of brackets [3,4]. References are numbered in the order in which they are cited in the text. The use of reference management software such as “Mendeley” or “Zotero” is recommended. The reference list is presented at the end of the paper under the heading References; see the examples.

Research Methods

Headings. Section headings must be printed in bold. A heading that forms part of the preceding heading should be included as part of the paragraph (as in the subheading in this paragraph).

Corresponding author*: xxxx@mail.ac.id

Page numbers. Do not add page numbers to the paper. Page numbers will be added automatically by the editorial team.

Tables. Tables (refer to them as Table 1, Table 2, ...) must be included as part of the paper text. The table title must be placed above each table and justified. If the table title exceeds one line, the second and subsequent lines must be indented by 7 spaces. Units in tables must follow the International System of Units (SI). Authors may also use a single column for tables placed at the very top or bottom of a page. Tables and graphs must not be presented as image files (screenshots).

Table 1. Example of Table 1

No.	Parameter	Value
1	A	20 mm
2	B	1000
3	C	0,1 kW

Equations. Equations (refer to them as Eq. 1, Eq. 2, ...) must be indented 5 mm (0.2") from the left margin. Leave one blank line before and after each equation. Equations must be numbered consecutively. The equation number must be placed in parentheses at the far right of the page.

$$c^2 = a^2 + b^2 \quad (1)$$

Special characters. Examples such as α γ μ Ω () ≥ ± ● Γ {110} must always be written in Times New Roman, as must the text in figures and tables.

Macros. Do not use macros in figures and tables.

Language. The text, figures, and tables must be written in English. Use language consistently and avoid significant mixing of languages throughout the paper. Foreign terms that have not been adopted into English should be written in italics, except for foreign terms defined at the beginning of the paper that are central to the research and therefore used repeatedly.

Results and Discussion

Present the main findings of the research. The conclusion should clearly and concisely state the main research findings and provide recommendations for further research. Avoid repeating explanations in excessive detail.

Present the main findings of the research. The conclusion must be written in paragraph form, not as bullet points. It should clearly and concisely state the main research findings and provide recommendations for further research. Avoid repeating explanations in excessive detail.

Acknowledgments

In this section, acknowledge third parties other than the paper's authors who played a significant role in preparing the paper. The source of research funding may also be mentioned in this section.

References
(Minimum of 15–20 References)

References must be written in Roman type. Author names must follow this format: write the first author's family/last name first, followed by the initials of the first name. For two authors, use the conjunction 'and'. For three or more authors, use 'et al.' after the first author's name. For references in English, retain English conventions, such as 'and' for two authors and 'et al.' for three or more authors. More than 80 percent of the references should preferably come from scholarly journals and conference proceedings, with most published within the last 5–10 years. Include a DOI for each reference that has one, and avoid citing blogs, websites without clearly identified authors, or undergraduate theses as primary references. References from accredited national journals and reputable international journals are recommended.
