An email template will be created by AI prompt, specifically for sending emails to multiple recipients individually. This means that all custom text, that is addressed to a person, will be converted to placeholders. The final template output must be double-checked by the administrator before the information is merged.

The AI prompt will be designed to identify custom fields that have been provided, which can be converted into valid placeholders (values), along with detailed information about the user, sample, and publisher. After the user selects the checkbox labeled "Send email to multiple recipients individually," individual emails will be generated and sent out to each recipient.

All the best,

Ample Samples Staff
