

NAME, I'm looking at getting a Swipe Files membership (swipefiles.co/membership) and was hoping I could use my education/development budget for this.

Here are the details:

- It's just $499/yr (discounts for multiple team members also)
- Hundreds of other members — mostly marketers and entrepreneurs
- A private community of marketers and entrepreneurs sharing practical examples and willing to help
- There are teardowns of landing pages, emails, ads, and other types of content for every use case
- It's a growing library of content across all sorts of different industries that I can't get elsewhere

The main benefit is just being able to upgrade my own marketing skills and be able to do better work, quicker. There are quite a few examples that directly relate to PROJECT and I'm sure more examples for future projects too.

The guy behind it is Corey Haines, who was the Head of Growth at Baremetrics and was the first marketing hire for Cordial.

I figured for such a low price it would be a no-brainer to really level up the quality of our marketing.

Okay if I expense the membership?
