latched on to her, twisted her, amplified the negativity in her. Then the mayor went in, and it changed him, too. The entity merged with Celine; it corresponded with the emotions she's more volatile with.

So it was only him and his sister in the body, whatever the entity was there, too. Celine kept him on a sleeping loop so should hunt the actor. Until Mark found him.

He learned that Mark caused all of it, that he summoned the Entity. He hadn't wanted her to break any more hearts. He wanted to be the Hero, but he wasn't. Mark wanted a villain, he could play the villain for a little while.

Once the mirror was broken, his sister was gone. Damien began remembering what actually happened. He remembered everything, his childhood, the events of the house, all of it. With those memories unlocked he began questioning the need for revenge as the rest of him slowly awakened. He never truly decides.

Aquamarine, like blue topaz, promotes harmony, relaxation, and it can be especially helpful in healing hurt feelings, and calming frayed nerves. It can help fight off chaos and negative emotions.

Void walking

As we've seen in AHWM and ADWM we've seen his void where it's quiet and his space to comfort himself or others that he can bring there. He can bring anyone there if he wants.

Erasing Memories

He looks into the person's eyes so he can erase the memory and get the dangerous person out of the house immediately.

his sister's love interest, she broke his heart. And for it he killed his friends. But they did become friends for a brief moment, while Mark and Celine were a couple. Mark trapped them in a mirror.

Celine

His sister, she killed his parents, weaseled into his friend group when they were children, but as she grew up she wanted nothing more to protect him. But given his dad's alcoholism, maybe she wanted to protect him even back then. He still resents her.
