Nowadays a vanity with a lighted mirror is a very common piece of furniture in the home. People are a lot more interested in their appearance on a day to day basis than they have been years ago. Along with that is the fact that this does not only apply to the ladies anymore. Men are increasingly interested in their grooming and appearance to the extent that they use accessories that help them to better see and maintain their facial appearance. It is for reasons like these that this piece of furniture has become very popular in the household.

Three Advantages of a Vanity With A Lighted Mirror

The first advantage to be derived from having a vanity with a lighted mirror is that with this concentration of light around the mirror, the person using this mirror will be able to tell exactly how they look at the time and will therefore be able to groom themselves in a much better way than if depending on just normal room light. The concentration of lights around the mirror enables you to see exactly how your face is made up and how it looks whereas with a normal room light you may have just an idea how your final appearance looks, but not as detailed an idea as when you have a much better lighted mirror.

A second advantage of having a vanity lighted mirror is the fact that it provides light without disturbing your partner/children etc. in the bedroom. Before these lighted pieces of furniture, people would depend on the bedroom light for example. If your partner is presently sleeping but you have to begin to dress for work or for an early morning outing, your sleeping partner would have to contend with the bedroom light being on. We all know this is not pleasant for the person trying to get some sleep. With this type of furniture now, this is eliminated and the person in the mirror also gets better light to prepare themselves, without disturbing their sleeping partner or kids.

A third advantage to using a vanity with a lighted mirror is that not only can you get better lighting but many of these lighted mirrors actually have light settings to emulate different scenarios. This is a hit with the ladies especially because when they are applying their makeup, they want the light to emulate the light of the place they are going. Some of these lighted settings are (1) day, (2) evening and (3) home/work (everyday). The day setting gives a similar lighting to daylight, the evening one adds a shade of pink and gives off a bit more heat so that applying makeup is easier, and the "everyday" option gives the light of the average room.

In summary, these are three benefits that you get when you own and use a vanity with a lighted mirror. There are more prevalent in the household nowadays than ever before and are a great asset to help you manage your appearance while applying makeup or for the guys, while grooming yourself.
