

Server Rules & Punishment Mandates

Formatting:

The rules below will have the following format:

The rule, followed by a detailed explanation and an approximate punishment and if it is appealable.

The rules will be separated by 3 categories which are; Minor Offenses, Moderate Offenses, and Severe Offenses. In each category, rules will be listed off as the lightest one on top, and the most severe at the bottom.

Minor offenses are usually reported on by players or helpers and will usually not be aggressively enforced.

Moderate offenses are actively enforced by mods and admins, and don't in some cases require player discomfort to be enforced.

Severe offenses are enforced to the most extreme, and are usually reviewed by admins or owners. These are usually unappealable.

Admins and above get to fully bypass punishment mandates if they deem a rule punishment does not fit the right circumstance. However any rank below Admin will always have to be within the limits of the punishments shown on this document, this is to ensure players know their punishments and can hold their staff accountable for excessive punishment.
