

CARS Evaluating Sources Checklist

Your Name: _____

Source Citation: _____

	Requirements	Yes or No
Credibility A source that is created by a person or group who knows the subject and who cares about how it is presented.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Is the author someone who would have knowledge of the subject?</li><li>- What are the author's credentials (teacher, professor, scientist, etc)?</li><li>- Should you believe what the author or organization has to say?</li><li>- Are there spelling or grammar errors, dead links, or other problems that indicate a lack of quality control?</li></ul>
Accuracy A source with information that is current, complete, and correct.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Is the information included up to date?</li><li>- Does the information on the site match information on other known, accurate sites?</li><li>- Does the information answer the question you need answered?</li></ul>
Reasonableness A source that is truthful and unbiased.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Does the author have bias on the subject (is only one side talked about in an overly positive manner)?</li><li>- Does the website give information about only one side of an argument?</li><li>- Does the author seem unreasonable in his/her assumptions?</li><li>- Does the author seem to exaggerate?</li></ul>
Support A source with verifiable sources of information.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Does the website or author include any sources or citations to support his/her theory?</li><li>- Do the sources the author provides meet the CARS Evaluation list?</li></ul>

Adapted from: Harris, R. (2015, January 21). Evaluating Internet Research Sources. Retrieved March 22, 2016 from <http://www.virtualsalt.com/evalu8it.htm>