Part 2

When you have your questions and answers ready, meet with one of your classmates to see if they know the answers as well. If they made a mistake in any of their answers, correct them and give the right answer. Submit your video recording online.

2.3 Zadatak 22. Poziv na kavu

 Video recording. Invite a friend for a coffee. Negotiate at what time, what day, and where you want to go. Say why you want to go for a coffee. Use the dialogues from our class session. They will help you with necessary phrasing, new words, and/or grammar structures. Submit your video recording online.

2.3 Zadatak 23. Kultura - razgovor

[h5p id="546"]

In this activity, you will learn about Croatia's two largest cities, Zagreb and Split. You will read a text about the importance of places like kavanas and cafes in the development of Zagreb society and the importance of špica, what it is and where it takes place. Your instructor will send you a handout for this task.

Social life in Croatia has long revolved around the visitation of establishments for food and drink, like kavanas and cafés, where members of the same or different social classes interact. One important example of social life in public, in which cafés and urban geography play an important role, is špica. Špica is a place, a social ritual, a state of mind, and a spectacle that connects urban residents to their city centers and each other.

Adapted from "The Phenomenon of Zagreb's Saturday Špica as a Part of Public Life in the Eyes of Users of the Space of Bogovićeve Street" by Tea Štefek, 2014. Translated by Samantha Farmer, 2021.
