

6.7 - jezdit vs. jet (past tense)

In this lesson we are going to review the use of jet vs. jezdit and expand our understanding to the past tense.

| indeterminate | determinate | definition         |
|---------------|-------------|--------------------|
| jezdit | jet  | to go (by vehicle) |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| indeterminate (jezdit) - these verbs are called indeterminate verbs because they either have many instances of a goal or lack a goal altogether <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>habitual acts of going - use the verb chodit when you are describing frequent or habitual trips.</li> </ul>    Minulý rok jsem jezdil do Brna dvakrát měsíčně. 'I used to go to Brno twice a month.' | determinate (jet) - these verbs are called determinate verbs because they have a single one-time goal. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>single trip - use the verb jít when you are describing a single trip from point A to point B.</li> </ul>    Minulý týden jsme jeli do Ostravy. Last week we went to Ostrava. |
| We will talk more about the 2nd meaning at a later time, for now you don't have to worry about it. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>goal-less motion</li> </ul>    Když jsem řídil pro Uber, jezdil jsem celý den po Praze. 'When I drove for Uber, I used to drive around Prague all day.'                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

Image used in this document comes from this source.