

Learning Through Writing

Visual Learner

Are you a visual learner? Need help studying? Try the following:

- “Draw things, use diagrams
- Write exam answers
- Recall the pictures made by your pages
- Practice turning your visuals back into words” (“Visual strategies,” n.d., “Output”)

This exercise will help you

- visualize your course material
- strengthen your memory
- look at a problem differently

Tip: You can use this strategy when taking notes for a number of classes, such as history, science, math and English.

Source: Visual strategies. (n.d.). Vark Learn. Retrieved from <http://vark-learn.com/strategies/visual-strategies/>