Kyle Scott Lee

Born and Based in Brooklyn, NY

His ceramic pieces are inspired by Jean-Michel Basquiat with their abstract colorful glazes, black stripes and amphora shapes. He teaches pottery at the Educational Alliance Art School in Manhattan, and he adores teaching.

He has exhibited his pieces all across the East coast, London, and Paris.

Lee is the founder of BKLYN CLAY - public ceramic studio for events, classes, etc.

1. What shapes do you see in Kyle Scott Lee's vase?
2. What do the colors make you feel in KSL's piece?

Kevin Snipes

Kevin Snipes is a ceramicists based in Cleveland, Ohio.

He makes his ceramics out of porcelain clay and cut out shapes and adds texture to the pieces to emphasize the figure he puts on them later.

He leaves the figures uncolored for his audience to see themselves in his art. He didn't want to represent one race. He makes his figures childlike to maintain the innocence of his art.

Rafael Lopez

Rafael Lopez, Maybe Something Beautiful, 2016

Hi, I'm Sonia. My friends and I are planting a garden. Gardens are magical places. Thousands of plants bloom together, but every flower, every berry, and every leaf is different. Each has a different smell, different color, different shape, and different purpose. Some flowers need lots of sunlight; others thrive in the shade. Some have to be trimmed regularly, while others are better off left alone. Some trees and flowers are more fragile, and others are more hardy.

Kids are all different too. Some of us are in a hurry, and others take more time. Some of us seem shy and quiet, while others are chatty and loud. Some of our differences are easy to spot. Others take longer to notice. Each of us grows in our own way, so if you are curious about other kids, JUST ASK!
