how better gets better and better

Carly is a recently retired Team USA freestyle skier. She competed in halfpipe at the 2022 Olympic Games in Beijing where she made it to the final round and finished 11th.

Carly grew up in Mammoth Lakes, CA where her parents introduced her to skiing at the age of three years old. When she was 12, she began competing in slopestyle, ski cross, and halfpipe events and after winning her age group was invited to compete at Nationals in Colorado. Carly's love of competition skiing flourished that weekend and her goal to eventually compete in the Winter Olympics was set in stone.

In 2016, after winning Halfpipe Nationals, she was invited to join the US Ski Rookie Team and just a year later made the Professional Team. Carly has had seven knee surgeries over the course of her career, but that didn't stop her from reaching her goal of competing in the Olympics. During her time rehabbing her injury, she completed a Bachelor's Degree in Cognitive Psychology.

FUN FACT!

I was born with two different colored eyebrows and eyelashes and I've had 7 knee surgeries! As a kid I wasn't allowed to ski in the park so I would drop my pole off the lift above the park, then go do the jumps/rails on the way to get my pole!
