Dog Skin Turning Black

Skin care for our dogs is so very important. We all love our dogs and we want to take care of them to ensure that they have the healthiest life that they can possibly have. So we walk and play with our friends, allowing them to get plenty of exercise. However, along with all the love and affection, the playing and long naps in the afternoon, you also have to look after them; this entails promoting the health of their skin. ...

Dog Diet Supplementnshedding Skin Smell

o Don't give a dog just any bone. Contrary to popular belief, feeding bones to dogs is not necessarily a good idea. Small soft bones gnawed and eaten by dogs can splinter inside their throat and cause them to choke. Chicken necks do not splinter, neither does the brisket bone of any animal, so these are good to give the dog as they also provide gum and teeth care when the dog gnaws on them. Dogs have short digestive tracts and also they have no saliva amylase, the enzyme that humans have that is used to pre-digest starch. ...
