

INTRODUCING

CODY JONES

CLASSROOM
CHAMPIONS[®]
how better gets better and better

Cody is a United States Paralympian and professional public speaker. He was born with a disability called cerebral palsy. It affects his strength and mobility on his left side. Cody jokes that his body is both a before and after version of Captain America. Cody realized early on that his disability was not a bad thing and decided to play baseball. His unique style of playing mostly one-handed gained him a lot of attention, including the U.S. Paralympic Track and Field Team where he picked up a javelin and started breaking a lot of records. Cody uses his athletic skills, gift of public speaking, and his disability to impact the next generation through ability awareness events.

Performance Stats:

2016 Rio Paralympic finalist

2019 Parapan am bronze medal in the F38 javelin

FUN FACT!

Cody really likes going to the beach for relaxation! He is really good at board games and LOVES watching fireworks!