

WCTCOG Regional Energy Management Assistance Project

What is the Regional Energy Management Assistance Project?

In partnership with the State Energy Conservation Office, the West Central Texas Council of Governments is evaluating our region's energy conservation and resilience capabilities. The Regional Energy Management Assistance Project will provide the WCTCOG with the ability to identify energy conservation needs, develop recommendation plans, participate in working groups to share strategies to reduce energy consumption, and evaluate educational information for reduction strategies.

WCTCOG Regional Approach

HAZARD MITIGATION

UPCOMING HAZARD MITIGATION PLAN UPDATES

Integrating energy resiliency and conservation into hazard mitigation plans by creating actions to minimize power loss to critical infrastructures during disasters. Actions can include generators, energy reduction, and implementation of warming stations.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Achieving energy efficiency helps the community save money. This project also connects the region with financial assistance opportunities for energy upgrades and retrofits.

KEEP IN MIND

- How do we integrate energy resiliency into hazard mitigation?
- What actions can prepare us for the future events?

- What resources are available for our communities to save money?
- What can be upgrade or retrofitted to benefit our citizens?
