

AMERICAN LIT.

Mrs. Wolfe, 2023-2024

This year we will focus on preparing you for the American Literature College Level Examination Program. All students will have the opportunity to take the exam in the Spring, in which you have the potential to receive college credits from participating universities. Our curriculum will contain a variety of American Literature short stories, novels, poetry, & dramas. We will be closely analyzing these works & partaking in discussions, essay writing, & project-based learning. I promise that I am understanding that not everyone enjoys reading or writing, but no matter your course in life, these skills will hold value.

It's my mission to make this as painless as possible!

Course Website

Copies of this syllabus, course calendar, links, policies, & test prep materials can be found here!

Attendance

Should you miss class for any reason, communication is very important! Please be sure to check the course calendar to see what you missed and submit assignments within two school days (this will be more difficult when cycle grades are due & may not be permissible). I am typically very accommodating, but if communication is not received by me upon return to school, there are no exceptions.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the act of claiming another person's writing, in whole or in part, as your own. You will automatically receive a zero for a plagiarized assignment, essay, or presentation. Please see attached Guidelines for Written Work policy for further information.
