how better gets better and better

Brooklyn McDougall is a 2022 Olympic Long Track Speed Skater from Calgary, AB. She started speed skating at 15 years old, transitioning from AAA hockey. She first laced up skates in 2014 at the Olympic Oval in Calgary and immediately knew she wanted to switch sports.

In just eight years of her skating career, Brooklyn became the 2018 Canadian Junior All Round Champion, competed at two Junior World Championships, became a five-time 2019 Canada Winter Games Medalist, became the 2021 women's 500m Canadian champion, made her Olympic debut in Beijing in 2022 and most recently won a gold medal at the 2023 World Championships and three 2023 World Cup Silver medals.

During this time, Brooklyn also graduated from the University of Calgary with a BSc in Biological Sciences with Distinction. Currently, she is taking business courses online with the plan of completing an MBA in the future.

FUN FACT!

I was the most decorated 2019 Canada Winter Games female athlete winning 5 medals! Outside of speedskating, I love golfing, making art and doing yoga.
