The deadly truth about a world built for men – from stab vests to car crashes

Crash-test dummies based on the 'average' male are just one example of design that forgets about women – and puts lives at risk

How white engineers built racist code – and why it's dangerous for black people

As facial recognition tools play a bigger role in fighting crime, inbuilt racial biases raise troubling questions about the systems that create them

Tech Policy / AI Ethics

AI is sending people to jail —and getting it wrong

Using historical data to train risk assessment tools could mean that machines are copying the mistakes of the past.

Bad things happen

If we can’t work together, nothing else matters.

DigitalBridge
Working together

We share knowledge and expertise.

Empowering individuality

We bring our whole selves to work.

Why so serious?
RIDING THE WAVES

We aren’t scared to have fun.

Accepting difference

We know that everyone is different.

Technology
for everyone

We build for those differences.

What have we learnt?

Personal space matters

Make the time to get to know yourself.

Values are important

Don’t force people to conform to yours.

Laugh everyday

Have fun at work in a way that works for you.

Constraints
matter

Set clear limits and expectations for everyone.

We don’t know everything

Things will change -communicate it.

Underpinning everything...

DigitalBridge

You work your best,

You work your best, when you feel your best.

So...

designing your culture helps your code

Thank you
