

SKUNK

Introduction

I like skunks because:

- When they are small they cannot see, so you can touch them!
- They are also cute!

But... make sure the mother is NOT around or else you might get sprayed by a stinky fluid!

Appearance

As you all probably know; skunks are black with white stripes (and sometimes even dots!)

When skunks are around 3 weeks old, they finally open their eyes!

Their mothers teach them how to: Walk, hunt, and explore their home.

Habitat

Skunks live in a lot of places, For instance... They live in...South America, Mexico, United States, and Canada. In this picture,you can see skunks going into a log that's their home.

A skunk's home is called a den. They make their dens anywhere they have access to food and water.

Diet

Skunks are omnivores. They don't have a particular diet. They usually eat whatever they can find. In this picture, a skunk has found compost from a person's home.

Behaviors

Skunk usually spray liquid when they are scared. They put their tail up in warning! If this ever happens to you DON'T RUN! If you run it will make them scared! And running will make the skunk have a more likely chance of spraying you! So if you encounter a skunk... BACK AWAY SLOWLY!

The skunk lives in a lot of different places. And eat a lot of different foods. They're harmless creatures, Unless they are scared or hurt!

Daddy's favorite skunk

Pepe Le Pew is Daddy's favorite skunk. In this picture Pepe Le Pew is being weird because he thinks that a cat is another Skunk.
