THE GENIUS (2013-2019)	The one that started it all, GENESIS. 13 players each season compete in complex free-for-all (sometimes team) and 1-on-1 games that test strategy, politics, mentality, psychology, and all that fancy-etymology book-learning jargon. 4 seasons of 12 episodes each, one player eliminated every episode. Getting to the very end of this show should be your initial priority. Even though you don't strictly have to finish all 4 seasons before moving on, trust me, you will be doing yourself a favor regarding context in many of the later shows on this list.	Available via Baechu Squad OR master spreadsheet	ASAP	One episode at a time is probably best so's you can really digest the game's information of each round.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You will if you like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Good casting Games that require good strategizing Politics Fun people/personalities When Externals Ways are back again Gambling Being defeated Massive choons Beautiful defeats Ugly victories
Crime Scene (2014-)	A variety show involving a revolving cast each season that convolves to solve elaborate murder mysteries (or resolves to be absolved by devolving the investigation) and have fun along the way. Originally running for three seasons from 2014 to 2017, a reboot/4th season aired in 2024, and a 5th season is planned. Big up FullMetal:9309 on Reddit for writing this description: "3 seasons of pure comedy and mystery. Cast are well known for their wit and smarts. Each episode there is a new crime- and they make a whole crime scene, as well as rooms/areas relating to each 'suspect'. The cast dresses up as each suspect and try to find clues, while still role playing- it's like mafia"	Seasons 1, 2, & 4: Available via Baechu Squad OR master spreadsheet Season 3: See master spreadsheet Season 5: Coming soon...	Whenever you want, BUT: Season 1: I recommend you finish at least up to Season 2 of The Genius first in order to nourish a better appreciation for the cast. Season 2 on: I recommend you finish at least up to Season 3 of The Genius first in order to nourish a better appreciation for the cast.	One case at a time. The first three cases are each two episodes long, but from then on until the end of Season 5, cases length was standardized to one episode each (with two exceptions that I won't spoil but which should be obvious once you get to them). Season 4 returns (teehee) to the two-episode format.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You will if you like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Genius Classic whodunits Subtle Mafia Game Acting Fun people/personalities Voting Handoffs
Problematic Men (2015-2020)	A weekly variety show wherein several accredited male celebrities try their hand at brainweaver/lateral thinking puzzles. Started in 2015 and was unceremoniously shelved in 2020.	A quick search should get you on the right track.	After finishing The Genius (one early episode spoils the show).	Obviously a tall order to get through, if you want somewhere to start, episodes 21, 29, 30, 34, 37, 38, 39, 41, 48, 58, 59, 65, 68, 69, 71, 76, 80, 85, 87, 94, 110, 135, 138, 152, 162, 163, 173, 174, 179, 187, 190, 200, 205, 209, 211, 221, and 224 feature members from other shows in this list (as guests).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You will if you like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Problems Men
SOCKET GAME (2016-2017)	The second survival show produced by God J.Y., consisting of two "societies", one a democratic republic, the other a benevolent dictatorship- going head-to-head in daily challenges. You won't be seeing many "Genius-style" plays in this one- it's more about politics, raw mental/physical ability, and the interactions/bonds that the residents of each society develop with each other. It ran for 2 seasons, each 12 episodes long, before being canned.	Available via Baechu Squad OR master spreadsheet	Season 1: Whenever you want (though I'd better not find out that you watched it before finishing The Genius). Season 2: After finishing The Genius. The Great Escape (2018-)	A variety show produced by J.Y. documenting the hardships and laughter of six brave boys as they challenge various escape "rooms". "Rooms" is in quotes because as the series progresses, the production value/scope of the escapes gradually balloons in size. There are six escapes per season, plus a bonus BTS special at the end of every season to wrap up/review the season as a whole. After being inactive for some time, a reboot season not led by J.Y. is planned to air in 2025 (the details of which are nebulous). Both The Great Escape Seasons 1 & 4 and Girls' High Mystery Class Season 1-2 are part of a canon known as the DTCU (DaeTaChu Universe) which refers to the different archived elements presented by the fictional world of both shows. As such, it is extremely recommended that these two shows in particular be watched in broadcast order.	Available via Baechu Squad OR master spreadsheet Reboot coming soon...	Seasons 1-3: After finishing The Genius. Season 4: After finishing Girls' High Mystery Class Season 1	One escape at a time. Each escape spans two episodes (except for one escape in Season 1 that was just not enough content-wise to fill two full episodes, but that is the only exception, I assure you).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You will if you like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Puzzles Good chemistry Lore Discovering things Discovering things The occult Comedy Tragedy Kino
Mafia Game In Prison (2019)	Also known as Prison Life Of Fools. Various entertaining individuals play rounds of Mafia interspersed with numerous wacky games. It's certainly less "brainy" and more "zany" than the other shows on this list. Not essential viewing, but at the end of the day, it's social deception and some of the cast appear in other shows on this list. As a bonus, it introduced me to one of the funniest comedians alive today, Lee Soo-yeon.	A quick search should get you on the right track.	Whenever you want.	One game at a time. One game is two episodes long (barring the final two games, which are both one episode shows).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You will if you like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mafia Game Fun people/personalities Comedy K-pop Ducks Wrong answers
Girls' High Mystery Class (2021-)	J.Y.'s second foray into the hybrid thriller/variety genre, this time starring five female entertainers roleplaying as students newly enrolled in schools which prove to be more than meets the eye. Note that J.Y. produced only the first two seasons, after which he had no input whatsoever (but did leave it in the capable hands of his co-direction). Both The Great Escape Seasons 1 & 4 and Girls' High Mystery Class Season 1-2 are part of a canon known as the DTCU (DaeTaChu Universe) which refers to the different archived elements presented by the fictional world of both shows. As such, it is extremely recommended that these two shows in particular be watched in broadcast order. MONEY GAME (2021)	A controversial web series created by Jin Yong-jin based off of a season of the same name . Not at all essential viewing, I only include it because some of the contestants later got casted for their tenure on this project in things that ARE essential viewing. After you finish watching, please read this post to further understand WHY this series attracted controversy: The Real Money Game: Drama after the show... ACCOMPLICE (2021-2023)	A Mafia-style web series created by famed content creator Jang Ji-soo. Although there are 2 seasons as of 2024, only the first season is fully translated, 3 episodes of Season 2 are not translated and likely never will be due to underperforming view-wise. I watched those episodes with YouTube's auto-translate feature and was able to follow along well enough. I'd say try that if you're really interested. GAME OF BLOOD (2021-)	Also known as Bloody Game. The first new brain survival show of the 2020s, advertised as "an unfair and irrational game" which, uh, it definitely proves to be at all points. Currently 2 seasons are out (with a 3rd on the way), which have surprisingly different favors. Season 1 was produced by the same individual who spearheaded Money Game (Jin Yong-jin), but Season 2 onward was produced without his input. Note that both seasons' final episodes are merely showcases of bonus clips that didn't make the final edit (and in Season 1's case, combines them with a cast reunion) and are not required viewing. (You may want to watch episodes 4 and 5 together.) Season 2: Two episodes at a time. (As that's how the season was released). Also, I highly recommend that you go in completely blind (no promotional material whatsoever) if you can. It may be fun to watch in tandem with The Time Hotel and Devil's Plan Season 1, as all three shows were filmed at around the same time. THE TIME HOTEL (2023)	A survival show that kind of appeared out of nowhere in early 2023 and broke the dry spell of survival shows in 2022. The titular hotel is a whimsical abode wherein time is not only your sole form of bargaining, but your lifeline as well. Certainly a must watch, as it is the closest thing we've had to The Genius since it ended, while having its own unique aesthetic and flair. DEVIL'S PLAN (2023-)	JJY's third venture into the realm of reality game shows, and his first in six years. Many people were hoping and praying that this would be the long-awaited return of The Genius, but DO NOT go into this expecting as such. Instead think of it as a soft reboot.	Watch The Devil's Plan Netflix Official Site Season 2 coming soon...	Season 1: Technically whenever you want, as it was designed to be as accessible as possible to international viewers who aren't realistically aware of the storied lore of Korean brain variety/survival shows. However, to truly appreciate all of the elements JJY injected into this show, I recommend you not watch until you finish The Genius and Society Game , as well as the first four seasons of The Great Escape and the first two seasons of Girls' High Mystery Class . It really seems like a hodgepodge of all the things he's helmed over the years. You may also want to watch: .Problematic Men .Mafia Game In Prison .Uma Game Season 2:	Season 1: One day of filming at a time. At first, each day is exactly two episodes long, but the boundaries between days are kind of muddled towards the latter half of the show. I recommend you end your viewing session after finishing episode 9 (even though day 5 hasn't ended yet at that point). It may be fun to watch in tandem with The Time Hotel and Game Of Blood Season 2 , as all three shows were filmed at around the same time. UNIVERSITY WAR (2023-)	Also known as Elite League. A survival show with a quiz show influence from the minds of a production team who previously worked on The Genius, Society Game, and The Great Escape, with the intensity/diffing of those shows to boot. Five teams of four from Korea's most prestigious academies duke it out in challenges involving extreme intellectual prowess. A lot of the games here would feel right at home on the likes of Society Game or Problematic Men. As the show itself claims, "strategic moves such as politics and betrayals are not necessary here", so if you're craving that sort of thing, keep watching. THE INFLUENCER (2024)	A survival show themed around the business of online influencing. Not really a "brain" show, but many of the tactics used by the players are surprisingly clever/outside the box (and as a bonus, some cast members from the other shows on this guide appear). I enjoyed this one way more than I expected to. These shows may also pique your interest, but for one reason or another, I decided that it didn't feel right to rope them in with the shows on the main list (at least for now).

Show	Why isn't it in the main list?
Abnormal Summit (2014-2017)	Good, sophisticated show, but just doesn't quite fit the criteria
Code: Secret Room (2016)	:(
New World (2021)	Barely counts as brainy most of the time, but still has its moments and is something I highly recommend
Gender Survival: Divided World (2022)	Translation incomplete
Battle for Tenancy: Penthouse (2022)	Not translated
TECH ROOM (2022)	Not good enough/significant enough to warrant focus
Button Game (2022)	Not translated
My Friends Are Smarter Than I (2023)	Not translated
Hexagon Game (2023)	Translation incomplete
Ideology Verification Zone: The Community (2024)	Not translated
Spillet (2024)	Untranslated Norwegian adaptation of Game Of Blood; have fun if you know Norwegian, I guess
Gold Spoon War (2024)	Region-locked
2ACE (Good Poker Content)	None of it is translated, but poker doesn't really have to be translated, does it? (I recommend "War Of The Poker Gods")
