The wolves are not that bad, the deck has low- medium amount of frostbites.	to trade and avoid 10 mana	mutators can cause trouble, bu the fight itself is reasonably predictable: the AI will just drop units and attack you.
Avarosan Trapper		30 units and 9 spells. The units are scaling from 3 mana 33 up to 8 mana 86. Many has overwhelm Expect combat incise huffing their health and slow speed 4 mana frostbite summoning a wolf.	harder to rescue your units.	Health increase makes it a bit harder to rescue your units. Also they attacking as they want makes them set up preferable block, but you can also prepare with combat trick to use this against them!	once, otherwise you may face difficulties. Be careful in combat, watch their	The power will trigger for the wolves, but that's ok, they may be easier to kill.		I try to avoid this with decks where key units are scaling on board as capture resets buffs. Otherwise I consider this somewhat fair.
Blighted Ravine	Prepare for growing powers on the enemy's side and slowly using your units. So try to trade and overcome the situation. Fortunately the regen	26 units scaling from 1 to 10 mana, 7 copies of Regen, and 4 of those has Overwheim. Against the 3 slow spells and 3 landmarks you can't do a tol, just calculate with them. So no combat trick and 4 pieces of card draw.	Enemy units are bigger, survive longer, grow strongerf :(		You really should try to kill, bounce ow whatever those units, which took damage before. The 0 3 units will fortunately die 2nd round,	No additional frostbite here, so wolves will grow slowly and die in 2 rounds, so this is the easiest mutator here. Just expect your stongest unit frostbitten when you defend.		This is an ok one, your plan wil barely be disrupted, you can mostly calculate hadea, so you should come out of this well.
Bone Scrver The Foe's units have Regeneration. Round Start: Set ALL units to 0 Power and grant them Formidable.	The regen and the combat tricks can be annoying. Keep in mind that the formidable happens at round start, so when anyone play a unit, it acts as normal for the turn, so normal combat damage, no healing round end.		This may be the hardest combo. Their fearsome units can't be blocked by your 0 power units. I guess be lucky to have a solution for this!			Fortunately the scaling power pf the wolves doesn't matter, so this is an easier one here.
Draklom Inquisitor Frostcoat Cub	The deck has access to interaction and draw, so be prepared. Their units will keep growing, so bring hyper aggro or some good control like stuns, silences, frostbites.	30 units, all dogs, they will grow. While they don't have overwhelm, Rimefang Packs do, and they can be summoned from 2x3 cards. Frostoact Ub also can be cast for 6 mana as Frostoact Mother, and she has overwhelm as well. Their interaction is noticable. It speels (burst, fast and slow), 7 of them are foostbites, and 4 are strike based removals.				Yeah the wolves are dogs, they go big, they have overwhelm and your units get frostbitten. Good luck!
Heart of the Fluft	If you fear the Heart, try to keep their board small. If you have answer for it, you can piay into that. Prio to kill units which have dangerous keywords like elusive, overwhelm, spellshield.	Poros and Poro support. The Foe's hand hardly runs out of cards because of the draw item on the 5 Poro Snaxes, and there is Aurona Porealis too. There shouldn't be a big surprise in any combat, be aware of the stat growth of the snaxes and the ocassional random keyword coming from the Hextech Fabrictor I on the burst speed 2 mana Poro Stories.	This is not a big problem here, but I noticed that in this case AI rather drops their bigger units first, but that's okay, their board fills slower.	Lets the AI to pull away your blockers when they have the Heart, so be prepared for this.	With the smaller poros this is not a problem, but be careful with the bigger ones!	The wolves accelerate them to reach the unit threshold, but at least not merged into the Heart.	board faster, so prepare	This is one of the easiest challenges, I try to go this way, when the midboss is ok.
Jubilant Poro
Lissandra Mirror Mage
Omen Hawk Round Start: Grant the top unit in the Foe's deck +20 +0.	Try to trade with the big stat units and you can win eventually, their deck falls off. Capturing or recalling their big units removes the buff.	The deck itself is pretty mild, it only contains units, so you don't have to expect any tricks. The units are 14 costs, so be prepared for the possibility of some level of swarm. Key items are challenger on Omen Hawk, with this it can pull away your blocker to let through the big hitters. Bull Einuk has quick attack, so it can avoid trading on its attacks.	You better handle at least 1 challenger Omen Hawn and a 40+ power fearsome unit round 1 attacking you.		This shouldn't be a big problem, Al has 1-5 hp units and no combat tricks, so you sould be able to kill them or trade with them in combat.	This power hinders you by the Frostbite not letting you trade on their attakcs. The wolfs can add some chip damage, but the will be less of a problem.
ProcSied Protective Broodfather When the Foe attacks, they draw a unit. If it's a Dragon, they summon it attacking.	The deck will play out relatively slow as there are many expensive cards in the deck, so try to tempo them out. The enemy often will attack even if it is mortal to activate their power to summon more dragons.	32 units, the majority of this are dragons, and there are some cheap dragon supports. Only these 6 copies of cards are under 3 mana, so the deck may very well has no pipy in round 1, and sometimes not even in round 2, as the majority of the cards are The 8 remaining cards are spells providing support. The 8 remaining cards are spells providing support. be prepared for 3 cost fast and 5 cost slow speed removal!
Rimetusk Shaman When the player summons a unit, Frostbite it.	Play mostly with open attacks because the slow frostbites and because your fresh units usually doesn't matter. In your combat turm summ blockers, in theirs summ attackers - to be ready for the next turm.	Mary frostbite cards. 21 units, from 2 to 8 mana, mostly with medium size. Then 1 spelis, al sow, all forsibites. Try to play around the 1 mana Shatter, which can kill your freshly summoned x[4 unit.	You will have problems with blocking here, as the Al's fearsome units bypass your frostbitten units.			Cool combo! Huge overwhelming wolfs and more frostbites.
Scarmother Vrynna She Who Wanders
Snowy Razorclaw Staritt Seer When the Foe plays a spell, grant the top unit in their deck +4 +4.	The AI will often use its spells in batches, so you can mostly expect few big units instead of some You can keep some interaction for these like kill or recall spells. or you can keep some interaction for these like kill or recall spells. If you do some cheap actions the AI you do some cheap actions the AI will cast units instead of leaving up mana for spells. Once its board is full, you can expect abig attack supported by spells.	The deck has 24 units and 21 burst spells. The units are small and cheap (max 2 cost) by default, but they can grow in deck thanks to the Expect elusive and overwhelm. The spells are mostly cheap and some of the draws. They can till or damage directly, but can buff their units or frostbite yours, so expect combat tricks.	Here you will see some big units angemeinten of the angemeinten of the angemeinten of the angemeinten of the angemeinten bigger ones and bash trough the rest.			Al's board can fill earlier and they start casting spells, so be careful with the overwhelming wolfs.
The Howling Abyss The Messenger
Troll Scavenger Round Start: The Foe Nabs 1 and grants it a random item.	Prepare to never draw your key cards and see them played against you. Basically those will be the difficulties here as those get an item. Other than that, maybe the	35 units and nothing else, and those are even weak, 1-2 cost units. Icevale Archer is basicly the only interaction they have with some challengers Hawks. The difficulity will come from your deck!	The unit of the opponent are small, so this won't be a big problem, but you shall think about your followers as well.	This doesn't really have any special effect other than letting the Al choose your blocks.				This should be easy unless you have many standalone good value cards.
Trundle	mutator can affect you. The main goal here is killing enemy units before an 8 cost unit is dropped, because afterwards it's harder. Open attack is usually not the best here as Trundle has a lot of burst speed forsbitles. Trundle has a man producer liem on him, so try to have an answer for him in the starting hand.
Warden of the Tribes Woolly Snailmoth Wrought Colossus	Try to remove Anura & Froop. as they will help other units swarm the board. As the game goes on you will have a harder job, but at least the healths don't grow.	The majority of the deck are units, with a random Supercoid Structurat and 3 Hameses. Combat tricks therfore can't be expected. Many units have overwhelm, elusive or challenger, so be prepared for that. There are some card advantage, but not a lot. 29 units scaling from 2 to 8 mana and 3 slow Caught in the Colds to disrut you. So you can mainly opped units. Some of them are hared. Shallmoth: Also there is the social Elnuk and the Reckoner with free spell to get additional attack against you. Erumemore a lot of units have overwhelm to make your life harder.	Brutal big stuff swarms the board.	Plenty blockers or interaction is needed, as the Foe will have many high power will and can arrange flavorable blocks for themselves.	Probably one of the easier one here as their health is not growing, but be careful, their first unit have Tough by default!		The AI dumps their units faster onto the board, try to mitigate this by killing the cost reducer unit. Big stuff comes earlier.	This is kind of OK, as the healths don't scale, but that is counterbalanced by many overwhelm and elusives units. At least you don't have to expect barely any interaction.

Encounter	Summary	Deck			Powers			PetiB's verdict
			All Things Grow Cold	Frost Gathers	I am Inevitable	Secrets Hidden by Frost	At Last, They Awaken
Yetis dies, create an	Yearling starf. If you can't, try to kill as few yetis as possible, and try to not let the nabbers attack.	So the good news here is that out of the 36 cards in the deck only 16 are Yetis or card that creates a Yeti, so in many cases this deck just doesn't do anything. The other cards are support, from the 9 spells 6 are slow frostbites.	Big Yetis!		I think this barely matters here, kind of win more. When it's relevant, you are already on the losing side.	As the deck has some frostbites the wolves can grown, but they will be porbably milder threats compared to the yetis, and they take board space too. Also the frostbites let you do non-killing blocks. So this power is ok here.		Kind of feat or famine on the Al's side, they can really snowball with a good draw, but can also have really bad draws as well. You may very well lose here, that happens, but just try a new run then!
Zephyr Sage Round Start: The Foe grants the lowest cost unit in their hand +3 +3, then creates an exact copy of it in hand.	sometimes keep agrown unit in hand, but sometimes plays both. Try to rush this dow with some	30 units from 1 to 6 mana (12 costing 2 or less), so it is likely the AI will swarm the board to medium to big units. The 3 burst spells give their later units Barrier, but fortunately you don't need to worry about anything in combat.	Bullshit big stuff!	Your units are likely to be killed, play them carefully, wait for the AI to attack, if you want the keep a new unit for next turn.
