To say this girl's giddiness is infectious would be an understatement. Babylon was born out of love and happiness, and by gods does she uphold that giddiness as a tiny kitten.

Always smiling and happy to see people, Babylon is one second away from grinning her head off at the sight of friends, strangers and even foes. She's outwardly friendly and helpful, always wanting to do her best and make life a little easier for others; in some ways acting similar to that of a girlscout!

She's very extroverted and loves meeting new people and talking to them, though can be a bit hard to handle sometimes as she can be incredibly loud and a bit overbearing in her excitement. Once you get past that however, as well as her dense and sometimes early 2000's loading time to clever jokes, you will find yourself with a friend for life.

It isn't all sunshine though, as Babylon can be quite stubborn in her beliefs. She's very righteous, a bit of a rule stickler and hates seeing nature hurt— It's their job to help uphold it, after all the world around you fosters you! If she catches you going against her moral code, she will oppose you, even if you were in the right.

Likes	Trivia	Dislikes
Animals!!	I designed her to look a little like a beaver, but honestly her tail looks like a lil sausage with grill marks and its very endearing to me </3	people who cause trouble!
